KITCHEN
SPECIFICATION FOR AGING IN PLACE

IDCEC CEU HSW-0.1

Course Description
The need for kitchens with Universal Design, which are accessible for the greatest number of users no matter what their ability or disability, is spelled out. The percentage of the population over 65 is fast growing, and the vast majority of people want to stay in their homes as they age, but their homes are woefully inadequate to be safe and accessible for the population. This course describes general design considerations for a luxury kitchen suitable for all users, and indicates features in cooking and refrigeration appliances that are safe and accessible.

SPECIFYING
LUXURY
KITCHENS IN SMALL SPACES

IDCEC CEU LU 0.1

Course Description
While designing a kitchen in smaller residences can present some challenges, they can still have the upscale finishes, quality appliances and all the bells and whistles the luxury clientele expects. This course describes general design considerations for specifying smaller kitchens, discusses refrigeration and cooking appliances that make most sense in a smaller space, and then suggests how to spread kitchen functions beyond the kitchen and into the rest of the home.

Susan M. Colvin
1955 -2020

Susan started her work career at Loogootee Home Outfitters before moving to Indianapolis and eventually started her own successful business, Susan Colvin Interiors, in 1991. She was a longtime member of the Indiana Chapter of the American Society of Interior Design and was a registered designer in the state of Indiana. She participated for 24 years in the Decorators' Show House for St. Margaret's Hospital Guild. As time permitted, she also volunteered for the Read Up program at an Indianapolis Public School and participated in the Big Brother/Big Sister program. She had a love for antiques, camping and all animals. ASID Indiana Chapter extends deep and heartfelt sympathy to her friends and family.

A donation has been made to the Humane Society for Hamilton County to honor Susan's love for animals.
